Owen D. Young Central School
Van Hornesville, New York

Foreword

Our school was given to the community by a man who was interested in the welfare of its children. Although Mr. Young has passed away, we will always be grateful to him for the advantages which we are so fortunate to have today.

Dedication

During the course of eighteen years devoting himself to the knowledge and education of students of this school, we all would like to extend our gratitude to Mr. George Endres. We thank you for your interest and patience through our junior high school years. We sincerely dedicate to you, Mr. Endres, the 1965 Otsquagan for your faithful service at Owen D. Young Central School.

Príncípál's Message

"Time marches on;" "Time and tide wait for no man." These sayings, plus many others, are often heard. They may be trite but they are true.

Every activity of our lives is measured inexorably by the grains of sand in the hourglass of time.

During our high school days we sometimes feel that the sands move too slowly; that this time span will never end.

When it finally does and we take a backward look, we realize that some of our happiest and most carefree moments are now memories.

Our teachers and school staff join me, I know, in the hope that your memories of the Owen D. Young School will be pleasant reminders of happy and productive years of activity and accomplishment.

The Senior Class of 1965 has been busy throughout our four years of high school. As Freshmen, we had a class project selling school banners and pennants. In the following year, we sold Christmas wreaths and other decorations.

Our Junior Prom and other class activities were a great success due to fine class participation. The last year is always, the best, we think, because our Senior Trip is coming soon. This will terminate a successful school year.

Juniors

The Junior class this year has started out with many projects. With Kermit Weldon as President they have had bake sales, sold pens, Xmas wrapping paper, and had a turkey raffle. Many other things have been planned, the most important, the Junior Prom. With the help and cooperation of everyone included, this should be the most successful year yet.
